The Centre for Elder Research has a long history of exploring the benefits and use of technology to support aging in place and increased quality of life for older adults. A new, and increasingly important, area of work in this field is the consideration of how technologies can foster social connectedness and counteract the loneliness and social isolation felt by many older adults, and often their family members or care partners as well.

We invite you to participate in a think tank hosted by the Centre, to explore how innovative technologies and their practical application can support optimal aging by focusing on social engagement.

GLOBAL MISSION STATEMENT

The Business of Aging Global Network connects businesses and industry leaders by providing a platform for collaboration, training and resource sharing related to the needs and wants of an aging population.
